AGED CARE COMMUNITY CONSULTATION

Dilston Memorial Hall on Thursday May 7 was the venue for a community consultation session with the aim to inform aged care services in the community.

A general invitation was extended to local community members aged over 65, along with their family, friends, and neighbours, to discuss aged care needs in the community.

The consultation session was conducted by Melita Simmonds from the Australian Government Department of Health, Disability and Ageing. The meeting formed part of the Department's work to develop a regional, rural and remote aged care policy framework and workplan, to clearly outline priorities for addressing ongoing challenges in aged care services.

The framework aims to ensure accessible, safe, and quality aged care services regardless of where a person lives. It is intended to support existing initiatives while remaining sustainable, relevant, transparent, accountable and flexible enough to respond to future challenges.

There was a strong turnout for the meeting with several important issues being raised for consideration, including:

- Transport. This was a major concern among attendees and was raised several times throughout the meeting. Residents spoke about the difficulties accessing medical appointments, shopping and other activities via public transport or other means. Access to specialist appointments was a particular concern.

- Assessment and support wait times. Some at the meeting expressed frustration about the complexity and length of time involved in arranging assessments and receiving in-home care support services.

- The availability of services. Limited access to services such as occupational therapy, specialised equipment, or even cleaning or gardening was highlighted as an area needing improvement.

- Exclusion from digital technology. Several participants noted that navigating computer technology can sometimes be difficult, particularly when dealing with call centres and long wait times. Ms Simmonds, who conducted this meeting, mentioned this as the reason she gives her personal mobile and email address should anyone have any questions they wish to raise about these aged care consultations.

- Loneliness and social connection. Attendees spoke about missing the community shop and discussed the importance of creating more opportunities for social interaction, meeting places, and community groups within the area.

At the conclusion of the discussion Ms Simmonds provided several useful resources for further information about aged care services and support.

CPR CLASSES AT DILSTON HALL

In early April, Smoke Signals was contacted by StarFlight Australia to see if local community members would be interested in free Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) classes and instruction on using an Automated External Defibrillator (AED).

Three sessions were held on April 13th at Dilston Hall, led by instructor Leah. In addition to covering AED use and CPR, Leah also explained what to do when calling for an ambulance and while waiting for emergency services to arrive.

Participants from the community who attended agreed that the sessions were incredibly useful, and the information Leah gave was easy to understand, making for an enjoyable learning experience.

StarFlight is the company that now has the contract to provide helicopter aeromedical services to Tasmania. As part of their contract, they provide free community 'First Minutes Matter' workshops for community groups and frontline volunteers. Information on attending or hosting workshops is available on their website at <https://starflightaustralia.com.au/about/>

Smoke Signals Printing and Delivery

The previous issue of Smoke Signals experienced a delay in delivery. Apologies from the Smoke Signals team for this. Unfortunately there were several events that contributed to this delay, including the Easter holidays and some problems with the printer. Printer issues also mean that some Newsletters were printed in black and white rather than colour.

Each edition of Smoke Signals involves over 1000 colour printed copies, and we have a distribution that covers households in the Dilston, Windermere, Swan Bay, and Hillwood areas. We also have issues placed at both Georgetown and Launceston libraries.

For several years now, the printing of Smoke Signals has been done at the offices of Michael Ferguson, with no cost to our community. We thank Michael and his staff for this service and recognise the time and effort that goes into this.

We also thank all our volunteers who continue to get the printed issue out to the households in our distribution area.

CHURCH NEWS St Matthias' Anglican Church 431 Windermere Rd

St Matthias' Church, 431 Windermere Rd, is part of the Anglican Parish of Holy Trinity Launceston. We meet every second and fourth Sunday at 9:30am. For more information about anything, contact Bronagh at the Holy Trinity office (Mon – Wed) 63314460 or Rev Lee 0468489068 or Rev Mark 0417664409

Easter: Some of our StM folk helped on the Holy Trinity Parish stall at the wonderfully successful Family Fun Day on Easter Saturday at Riverbend Park. Several hundred people visited us and did a craft activity highlighting the resurrection. Next day, Easter Sunday, saw 39 people join in song and praise on the riverbank at 6:30am as the sun rose over the Tamar: such a glorious way to celebrate the HOPE of the Risen Lord.

Columbarium Wall Niches: Niches can be reserved by anyone, local or otherwise, and irrespective of connection with the Church itself. Costs are on par with rural LCC cemeteries, and well below those of Carr Villa in town. Further details: office@htl.org.au

LIFE Group Bible Study in Windermere fortnightly. Contact Rosemary on 0432485109 Young Adults Group for those aged 18-40. Held in the Narthex (front) of Holy Trinity (Cnr Cameron and George Sts) on Wednesdays 6-8:30pm, includes dinner, fellowship and study, during school terms only. If you need a quiet place to reflect in the busy-ness of your shopping in town, remember that Holy Trinity is open daily 10am-12. Cnr of Cameron and George Streets.

Jack and Mel's 25th WA. Congratulations and best wishes to Jack and Melissa Rosevear who were married at St Matthias' Church 25 years ago, and celebrated their 25th Wedding Anniversary on May 26th. St Matthias' Church is still a beautiful setting for a wedding in 2026

GARDEN CLUB NEWS

APRIL – Garden Club took a bus trip in April to Nietta, which is 550 metres above sea level providing the perfect climate for KAYDALE LODGE as a cool climate garden. Members enjoyed the warmth of a wood fire and a delicious lunch. Lesley and Amarlie were our hosts – their passion and hard work are evident in this beautiful garden.

We began our garden tour along the Silver Birch Walk where the trees are underplanted with forget-me-nots, and at the end of which a thyme lawn has been established with 400 cuttings of the girls' favourite species. An occasional fly agaric toadstool made its dramatic appearance! The path led us into the Memorial Garden, where a majestic and symmetrical monkey puzzle tree stood in remembrance of the girls' father.

Along the roadside a 50-metre stone wall has been constructed from rocks collected on the property. Previously a dirt bank where pardalotes nested, it is now named Pardalote Avenue. Amarlie has drilled holes in the wall to accommodate the nesting habits of returning birds. Further across the driveway, a swing made from celery pine has been positioned under mature blue spruce trees, from which to contemplate this magnificent stone wall. Another exceptional accomplishment is The Rockery which was established on a bare paddock. Rocks were carted from around the property, and positioned according to the family's agreed plan. An impressive variety of shrubs and plants are thriving - offset by a waterfall flowing between the rocks.

Other highlights which we had time to explore were the Hot House and the roof top of the Summer House where we could look across to Mt. Roland. We visited the Fernery and its three metre high man ferns, the mesh Berry House, Blueberry Lane (which can yield up to 400kg of fruit annually), the white Wisteria Pavillion, the Dry Zen Garden and its bonsai, and the Pear Walk featuring 27 espaliered beurre bosc pear trees. The maples were glorious - over 75 different varieties displaying colours of red, orange and gold. Even after 1-1/2 hours of walking around this two-hectare garden, we had still not seen everything! Kaydale Lodge is truly inspirational: a magnificent display of cold climate plants and creative stone work created by a passionate family and now lovingly and creatively maintained by sisters, Amarlie and Lesley.

MAY - A very pleasant autumn afternoon was spent in the Windermere garden of Edna Brock.

Edna's property enjoys an elevated position from which extensive views of the Tamar can be admired. These water views provide a marvellous backdrop for the spacious and comprehensive garden. Thoughtful landscaping enables an easy walk throughout, and hedging defines specific areas, encouraging focused contemplation.

Having visited here in the spring of last year, we were able to appreciate the many seasonal contrasts in all that is growing in this lovely garden. A gracious driveway wends its way to the front veranda of the house - where fifteen of our members were comfortably seated to enjoy a very relaxed afternoon tea.

Thank you so much to Edna for your hospitality – it was so good to spend time with you in your gorgeous garden again.

Dilston Windermere and Swan Bay Garden Club's next gatherings will be in June – Glebe Gardens and in July – our Annual Midwinter Celebration. If you would like to join Garden Club, please send an email to dilwinsbgardenclub@gmail.com or contact me on 0407 447 344. New members are very welcome.

“Dolls Houses”

The East Tamar Men’s Shed is involved in many varied projects for the community. One of our recent projects has been building “dolls Houses” for Tasmania Fire. These are not your traditional dolls houses though.

We were asked to provide three trial “dolls houses” for Tasmania Fire to use in their training program as a demonstration tool for fire behaviour. These houses were delivered to Dilston Fire Station, where one was set alight as part of their training. Feedback was that the demonstration was a great success.

The houses are made from chip board and made to specific sizes, design, and assembly.

We are hoping that many of these houses will be required.

RECYCLING PROGRAM

A big shout out to members of the local area who are using the Men’s Shed to drop your cans and bottles for recycling. The receipt of many cans and bottles into our recycling collection bins has been increasing and this program has provided a small but very much appreciated financial bonus to the shed.

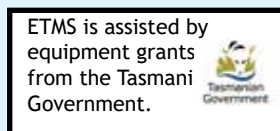

Wine bottles are not included in the program at this time however there was discussion that they will be included in the future.

To assist the Shed, simply drop your cans and bottles into our bins which are at the front of the Shed. We will sort them and cash them in the collection centre in Mowbray.

Come and check it out. Monday, Wednesday, Saturday 8.30 am to 1.30pm behind Dilston Hall.

For membership enquiries, please contact our President, Ken Martin on 0412 46 42 49

Winter on the Wing.....

The approaching winter season is special on the Tamar for the diversity of activity in our bird population. A keen bird watcher will notice the preparation of many local species for winter breeding or even an eye on the river in winter will see lots of activity.

If you live close to the Tamar you may observe spectacular displays of our White-breasted Sea Eagle as he assures his mate that he is the best for breeding.

Spurred Lapwings (plovers), after an autumn of noisy colonising, now select a mate and dominate an area the pair has chosen to breed. Wide open green spaces are often claimed by this species, and you can expect aggressive defence by a pair if you happen to walk through their claimed territory. Without being too aggressive in return, a raised umbrella of stick above head height will deter any human injuries. They give a very assertive message. The young are independent from parents quickly after hatching in August, and aggressiveness from the parents fades.

The Yellow-tailed Black Cockatoos are feeding on mature macrocarpa pinecones at this time of the year and you can expect a croaky hello as they pass low overhead.

Flame Robins often appear on timbered verges. The male birds love fence posts to supervise their female as nesting looms in late winter.

A morning or afternoon walk in the Native Point Reserve is a great choice at this time of the year.

Black swans in sheltered waters return to a chosen partner and numbers in Swan Bay increase over winter. Nesting sites are also obvious on the dam at the end of the decline from Archers Hill going into town.

Grey Currawongs are vocal in early mornings after seeking refuge from the extremes of mountain climates through the summer months.

Grey Butcherbirds are particularly vocal in late autumn/early winter as the male calls to attract a mate in the early mornings.

Absent from our regular encounters are swallows, woodswallows, Black-faced Cuckoo Shrikes and Cuckoos, all of which largely migrate like our grey nomads over the winter months.

When driving the rural roads in winter, especially on rainy nights we need to be observant for owls and Tawny Frogmouths, which often use the lights of cars and street lamps to prey on frogs and other small nocturnal life.

The choice to live in a rural area brings with it a call to respect our native wildlife.

It's too late once they are gone!

Dilston and Hillwood Fire Brigades

Tasmania Fire Service

Register your burn offs and fires by calling freecall 1800 000 699, or via My Service Tasmania

By letting us know, you will help to prevent false alarms!

Brigade Updates

This year is an election year for both Hillwood and Dilston Brigades, where brigade members are sought to select and elect their leadership groups for a new term.

Hillwood's has yet to be held as this issue is written, however Dilston's has been run and we would like to take the opportunity to acknowledge Nev and Ken N on their retirements from Dilston Fire Brigade, and the Tasmania Fire Service. Their many years of dedicated service, countless hours of emergency response both intra and interstate, and an unwavering commitment to both the local, and broader Tasmanian communities have left a lasting impact. Their contribution reflects the highest standards of volunteer service, and we thank them sincerely for everything they have given.

We also acknowledge Paul for his service as 2nd Officer in the brigade. His leadership, reliability, and steady presence have been greatly valued, and as he steps into a Leading Firefighter role, we appreciate his ongoing commitment to the brigade and the experience he brings to the team.

Congratulations to Ben as he steps up to 2IC and welcome to Peter and Ken as they take on brigade leadership roles.

Permits and Registered Burns

Thankyou to community members for continuing to work with us during the now rescinded fire permit period, and for the broad use of My Service Tasmania in seeking a permit. This streamlines and coordinated the process for us, and enables us to better advise community members of where and how they can burn on their properties.

Whilst permits are no longer needed, we ask that burns to wish to undertake are still registered via the same process.

A new Digital Fire Permit System is close to being released and we hope to have more information for you for the next issue of Smoke Signals. Suffice to say, this new system will further streamline the process for all. Stay tuned!!

Can we fit?!

We have published fire appliance dimensions again on the next page to highlight the MINIMUM dimensions we need to access your property should we need to.

HILLWOOD GARDEN CLUB:

In April the Hillwood Garden club revamped their wreath and created some new ones in time for the Hillwood ANZAC Day Dawn service. What a creative bunch.

In May, we invited guest speaker Judy Kingston from the School for Seniors who gave a very interesting talk on edible flowers.

Many common garden flowers are edible, offering a range of flavours from sweet to peppery, and can be used in salads, desserts, teas, and garnishes. A little information on native plants: Did you know Acacia (wattle) blossoms can be used in fritters or cakes, Lomandra (Mat Rush or Sagg) has small sweetly scented flowers which can be eaten. The Hillwood Garden Club meet at 7:30pm on the third Monday of the Month at the Hillwood Hall. New members always welcome. In June we have invited Helen Tait who will talk about habitat trees, followed by Allison Hugo from Tamar NRM in July. Come listen to a short talk followed by a cuppa and supper. No gardening experience necessary!

ANZAC DAY: Thank you to all the HPA, Fire Brigade & Community members who helped on the day, both with the service at the Fire Station and at the Hillwood War Memorial Hall for the breakfast. A lot of work goes into day and with setting up and packing up, and we appreciate the many hands that make this happen.

Thank you all those who donated to our raffle.

East Tamar Mens Shed , Hillwood Berry Farm, Michael Carey Mulch, Hinton Bay Wines, Hillwood Vineyard, Highclare Estate Wines, Hillwood Football Club, Marigolds Café, Ann, and Julie Airey.

Thank you to all who bought tickets and made a donation on the day. This helps to ensure we can run the breakfast again next year with any surplus funds being donated to charity.

LONE PINE PLANTING. Sourced and donated to the Hillwood Progress Association by Tom Gunn and Anne Green some years ago, this lone pine has finally found a home at the Hillwood Recreation Ground. The Australian War memorial only recognise two genuine descendants of lone pine from Gallipoli. One, at the War memorial in Melbourne and the other in Canberra. This Lone Pine is descended from the Canberra one. A small planting service was held on 20th April 2026 with Ian Wheeler officiating. Anne Green tasked with the job of spreading the roots and covering them with soil, and Tom Gunn gave an interesting short talk about the history of the lone pine.

Thank you to the George Town Council for liaising on the location to plant the tree and for creating the garden bed and rock walls.

A plaque was placed on the rock prior to our Anzac Day Service.

Sharon Fahey | Property Representative

Sharon Fahey has been a real estate agent since 2002. As a Property Representative, she deals with owners and purchasers within the north east areas of Tasmania and Launceston.

She has lived in Windermere & Swan Bay in the East Tamar area since 2003 and prior to that moved from Karoola. She particularly loves the sense of community in country areas, knows many people, and the diversity of those who live there.

Sharon has sold everything from lifestyle properties, acreage and your typical suburban home in the Launceston area. Early in her career, Sharon broke the record for selling 13 properties in 10 days and has ranked eight times in the top 100 sales agents Australia wide for a national agency group.

Sharon is particularly good at and prides herself with her knowledge of rural properties, and lived on a 125-acre small beef farm for over 20 years. She also has a very keen eye for detail and is happy to offer her advice on presentation in order to achieve the best price.

Sharon loves the challenge of marketing unusual properties, also matching buyers with their ideal homes and helping her vendor's property stand out in a busy market. She will always aim to achieve the best price the market is prepared to pay. Her greatest triumph is receiving the many testimonials from clients she has helped through tricky situations.

One of her proudest moments was when she assisted a young couple who had bought a door-upper to renovate it themselves, to re-sell. With Sharon's advice on renovations and marketing, their home was transformed, and she was able to market it to exactly the right demographic and turn their renovated home into a huge selling point. These same clients have come back time and time again and asked Sharon to sell all their renovated properties.

A unique blend of professionalism, personality and drive has been the key factor that allows Sharon to say that she certainly has the runs on the board.
